

Black Tie Events Music List Directions.

Wedding Edition

The following list of music is only intended to be a representative sampling of our music library. We tried to include the most-often requested songs from the most-often requested genres. Please high-light the songs you would like to hear at your event; the more songs you high-light, the better idea you'll give us of your musical preferences. You might also want to ask your family & friends for some ideas. If you would like to write down some songs you don't see on the list, please list them below. If you would like to supply your own CDs, please attach post-it notes explaining what you want played, and when. For example, Track One for cocktails, Track Eight for dinner, Track Twelve for dancing. (If you do want to supply your own CDs, we need them in advance of the reception!) When choosing your music, keep in mind that most receptions have a cocktail hour, a lunch/dinner hour (or more), then the remainder of the time is spent dancing. A popular choice of music for cocktail hour is easy-going jazz. During the meal we'll often play a variety of classic and modern vocalists, i.e. Frank Sinatra, Dean Martin, Louis Armstrong, on up to Harry Connick Jr., Natalie Cole, Michael Buble, etc. If you would like to do things differently, let us know. If you've looked over the Music List, you may have noticed the "Utility Music" section. This page can help you pick out songs to play while you and the wedding party are being introduced, or during the Bouquet/Garter toss, or whatever. While we can play about 15 to 20 songs per hour; the more songs you list, the better we can predict other music you might like. Double-check the "Must Plays", please.

CEREMONY MUSIC

Probably 80% of the ceremonies we do use classical music as guests are arriving, then go into fairly traditional ceremony music once the ceremony gets underway. The formal seating of the honored guests (usually mothers & grandmothers) is the first part of the ceremony. The minister, groom & groomsmen usually walk out next, then out go the bridesmaids and flower girl. Next comes the bride. During the candle-lighting, or sand-pouring, or rose presentation, a little piece of music can be nice. At the end of the ceremony comes the recessional. We could go with traditional music here, or you might want to surprise and amuse your guests with something either like "I Got You Babe", "One Love" by Bob Marley, "Ain't That A Kick In The Head" by Dean Martin, or anything you might already have in mind.
